1 Event Description

Al-Istiqlal University organized an information day dedicated to the ICT4EDU project, with the participation of a large number of faculty members. The aim of the event was to present the main components of the project, its educational objectives, and the expected benefits of integrating modern technologies into university teaching.

The day included an overview of the different phases of the project, particularly the planned actions to strengthen the digital skills of both teachers and students. Participants showed strong interest in the opportunities offered by this project, especially in terms of improving the educational environment and promoting interactive learning.

Interactive sessions were held to address questions and discuss the prospects of integrating these digital tools into higher education.

In conclusion, the project coordinators emphasized the importance of continuing the planned training activities and reaffirmed the university's commitment to providing the necessary resources to ensure the success of this initiative.

This project is part of Al-Istiqlal University's ongoing efforts to modernize its educational system and promote pedagogical innovation in line with global trends in digital education.
