Event Description

On Wednesday, July 31st, the University of Jordan opened a new laboratory at the King Abdullah II School of Information Technology. This lab is part of the ICT4EDU project, "Enhancing ICT Competencies of Early Childhood Teachers in Higher Education Institutions in the MENA Region," which aims to improve educational practices by integrating modern technology into early childhood education in the Middle East and North Africa.

Prof. Ashraf Abu Karaki, Vice President for Scientific Faculties, inaugurated the event on behalf of the President of the University of Jordan. Attendees toured the lab and the project coordinator, Prof. Ahmed Al-Salaymeh, gave a presentation about the project's goals and progress.

• The lab is equipped with modern computers, an interactive whiteboard, and video editing and creation software that aid in enhancing the educational process through the use of visual media to prepare interactive and engaging educational materials. The establishment of this lab offers an opportunity for students to learn to use modern technology in the educational process, improve their skills, and enhance their interactions.

 Promotional materials were disseminated during this event including informative brochures and flyers.
