

Dr. Ezzaldeen Edwan

Dr. Ezzaldeen Edwan is an assistant professor at Palestine Technical College. He received the B.Sc. degree in electrical engineering from Birzeit University, Palestine in 1997 and the M.Sc. degree in electrical engineering from Oklahoma State University, OK, USA in 2003 and the doctoral degree in electrical engineering in 2013 from the University of Siegen, Germany. His main research interests are sensors, inertial navigation systems, control systems, mobile robotics, sensor fusion and applied estimation theory. He has experience in the academic field lecturing for electrical and computer engineering courses and in research through participating in different European research projects. He is a recipient of the Fulbright and the DAAD scholarships, respectively. He authored and coauthored more than 50 scientific papers in well-known journals and international conferences. He has experience in Erasmus+ program being a local manager at PTC of three Erasmus+ projects namely MS@CPS, Edu4All and ICT4EDU.