Dr. Mahmoud Jazzar

Dr. Jazzar is currently working as an associate professor in computer science and Dean for the College of IT at Palestine Technical University – Kadoorie. He served as director of Kadoorie center for innovation in teaching and learning during 2017 – 2018, and head of Quality Dept. during 2019-2022. In addition, he participated in the administration, training and course development of the Erasmus+ projects such as Fostering Entrepreneurship in Science, Technology, Engineering and Math (FESTEM) project and in the Erasmus+ project so called Pathway in Forensic Computing (FORC). Prior working at Palestine Technical University - Kadoorie, Dr. Jazzar worked as Dean with Royal University for Women in the Kingdom of Bahrain and Assistant Professor in Computer Science with Al-quds University, Curtin University of Technology- Sarawak, and Birzeit University. Dr. Jazzar is a member of IEEE Computer Society, IAENG, MySEIG, and the Malaysian Information Technology Society (MITS). He joined many organizing and technical program committees and as a reviewer of many international conferences and journals. His main research lies in the area of Computer and Network Securities, Intrusion Detection and Protection, Forensics, and Intelligent Systems. He has supervised several research projects, published one book and several scientific research papers in his research domain.