

Dr. Nadia Hamad Salous

Dr. Nadia Hamad Salous is an assistant professor in translation and linguistics at the department of English of the Palestine Technical University Kadoorie, Palestine. She teaches a variety of technology and English language courses. Nadia organized workshops on language learning and integrating technology in the teaching process for academics and professionals in collaboration with Erasmus Plus projects from 2018–2022. She also works with the British Council in Palestine as a freelance trainer at PTUK. She is interested in establishing a cooperative community with both the local and international communities; she demonstrates to students the importance of mutual respect and collaboration among all community members.