

Prof. Saif Alnawayseh

He is an Associate Professor on the Department of Electric Engineering at Mutah University, where he has been since 2011. He also currently serves as Director of International Affairs office. Also he has served in many positions in Mutah University such as a Vice Dean of Graduate studies college from 2015 to 2017 and as a Dean Assistant of engineering faculty for quality assurance and industry affairs from 2013 to 2015. He received a M.S. from the Sydney University at Australia in 2007. He received his Ph.D. in Advance Telecommunication Engineering from University of Swansea (UK) in 2011. Dr Saif has a number of publications on highly cited journals and conferences such as IEEE and a member in the Institute of Jordan Engineers since 2005, and Institution of Electric and Electronic Engineering (IEEE) since 2001. In addition, being an active team member in one of tempus project, six Erasmus plus project. Organizing and participating in many workshops, seminars and conferences in the field of Telecommunication, developing high education programs, Renewable Energy and Green building. He joined and represented Mutah University in several projects funded by the European Commission (Erasmus Plus). He is expert in Electrical material and material insulation