

Prof. Muhannad Al-Shboul is an Associate Professor of e-Learning in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction at the Faculty of Educational Sciences, the University of Jordan, and Amman, Jordan. His primary research interests include e-Learning, Web-based Learning, Web Design, e-Government, Distance Learning, e-Content Development, Human Resources Development, and Educational Technology Utilizations in Higher Education. So far, he has published more than 20 articles in reputed International Journals related to his field of specialization, published two books in e-Learning, delivered many oral presentations at international educational conferences, and conducted several training sessions including faculty development, human resources management, leadership skills, and instructional design strategies. Prof. Al-Shboul received a M.S. in Computer Science from Northeastern Illinois University and a Ph.D. in Educational Technology from Northern Illinois University in the United States.