Prof. Dr. Ahmad Al-Khasawneh
President of Irbid National University

Prof. Dr. Ahmad Al-Khasawneh is the president of Irbid National University and a professor of computer information systems. He holds the PhD and M.Sc. of information and software systems and technology from Newcastle University, Australia and B.S in computer and automatic control engineering. Dr. Khasawneh has 25 years of experience in ICT field and in ICT applications and acts as technical advisor to the Royal Jordanian Airlines (NDC Jordan) director on issues related to the development of travel industry and ICT strategy. Prior to joining the Hashemite University of Jordan, he held several key positions with major international ICT consultancy and solutions firms and lecturer in IT related topics at Newcastle University, Australia. One of his key positions is the founder and director of eLearning center and, he is the former dean of Academic Development And International Outreach, former dean of the Prince Hussein Bin Abdullah II for Information Technology at Hashemite University and former director of center of information and communication technology and eLearning. He is the contact person (at HU) for three Tempus projects; and three Erasmus+ project, and a head and member of the many committees of another Tempus and Erasmus+ project. He is very well-known in the EU project management. Al-Khasawneh has an extensive experience in the field of teaching, through the application of e-learning in the teaching process within the university environment; We also look forward to enhancing modern concepts in the teaching process such as virtual reality and augmented reality, and we plan to start these concepts at the Faculty of Science and Information Technology as a pilot project (team project).