Dr. Ayman A. Abu baker

Full Professor at Faculty of Engineering and Technology at Applied Science Private University

Ayman A. Abu baker has obtained his PhD in the area of in Electronic Imaging and Media Communications (EIMC) from School of Informatics, University of Bradford- UK. Currently, he is a Professor in image processing and machine learning at the Faculty of Engineering and Technology, Applied Science Private University, Jordan. He has published more than 70 research articles/papers in journals, and conferences in his main research interest such as medical images processing including mammogram images (detecting micro calcifications and mass lesions), ultrasound and MRI. Ayman A. Abu baker has been actively working with several national professional communities and industries in the area of engineering education and accreditation such as ABET accreditation. He served as the dean of Faculty of Engineering and Technology at Applied Science Private University, Jordan.