Aim of the Project

The main objective of the Healing project is to divulge and foster the development of the Arts Therapies and Arts Therapies education in Tunisia and Jordan, exploiting the know-how of partner countries. In particular, the project aims to develop a professional educational program (e-learning package) that will enable all staff and students to work with patients with chronic conditions to offer them arts-based therapeutic activities.

The consortium will collaborate to create materials for the eLearning package of vocational training for staff and students in how to use the arts as a therapeutic tool.

This new learning package will enable staff from a variety of professional backgrounds to include the arts as part of their therapeutic work.

Staff from partner countries will be sharing their experiences and gaining knowledge of how the arts can be used in different cultural and medical care setting through attending training workshops in program countries.
